you agree?!

yes – there are risks associated with our products and activities. although the risk of injury is low if used as intended and our instructions are followed, it cannot be ruled out. despite all caution, injuries or soiling and damage to clothing etc. can also occur due to moisture from above or below. therefore we must and want to make clear agreements in advance about any liability claims. participation in our events or the use of our products is only possible after signing this declaration and is at your own risk. below the participants/guardians declare – each for themselves – that they have taken note of these instructions and conditions and that they agree to them.

persons under the age of 18 require the written consent of a parent or legal guardian to participate. the operator is not liable for damages resulting from the use of our products or from participation in our events, unless they are due to intentional or grossly negligent behaviour on our part or on the part of our vicarious agents.

i agree that staff who receive regular first-aid training may, as part of the program, perform minor first-aid procedures, including applying bandages, removing ticks, and disinfecting superficial wounds with octenisept®. these procedures are performed as part of necessary first aid and do not replace medical treatment when needed.

allergies and illnesses must be reported to the tos by the parents. we may be accompanied by 1-2 dogs on our adventures. these can also be kept on a lead if desired.

photos: we take photos from time to time. we only share them on our channels if the kids are not clearly identifiable and of course always without giving their name, age or similar.

we would like to stay in contact with you!
